Annual Report 2018

We received 178 entries for the Awards 2018.

After ample discussion the National Selection Committee selected ten nominees from these applicants. You'll find them listed below with their working area and target species:

Adam Miller (Indonesia, singing birds)

Andrés Valenzuela Sánchez (Chili, Darwin's frogs)

Aristide Takoukam Kamla (Cameroon, manatee)

Felipe Francisco Alfonso Cortes (Colombia, brown-headed spider monkey)

Geraldine Werhahn (Nepal, Himalayan wolf)

Murthy Kantimahanti (India, King cobra)

Paula Gonzalez Ciccía (Argentina, Maned wolf)

Ruthmery Pillco Huarcaya (Peru, Sira Curasson)

Santiago Zuluaga (Argentina, solitary crowned eagle)

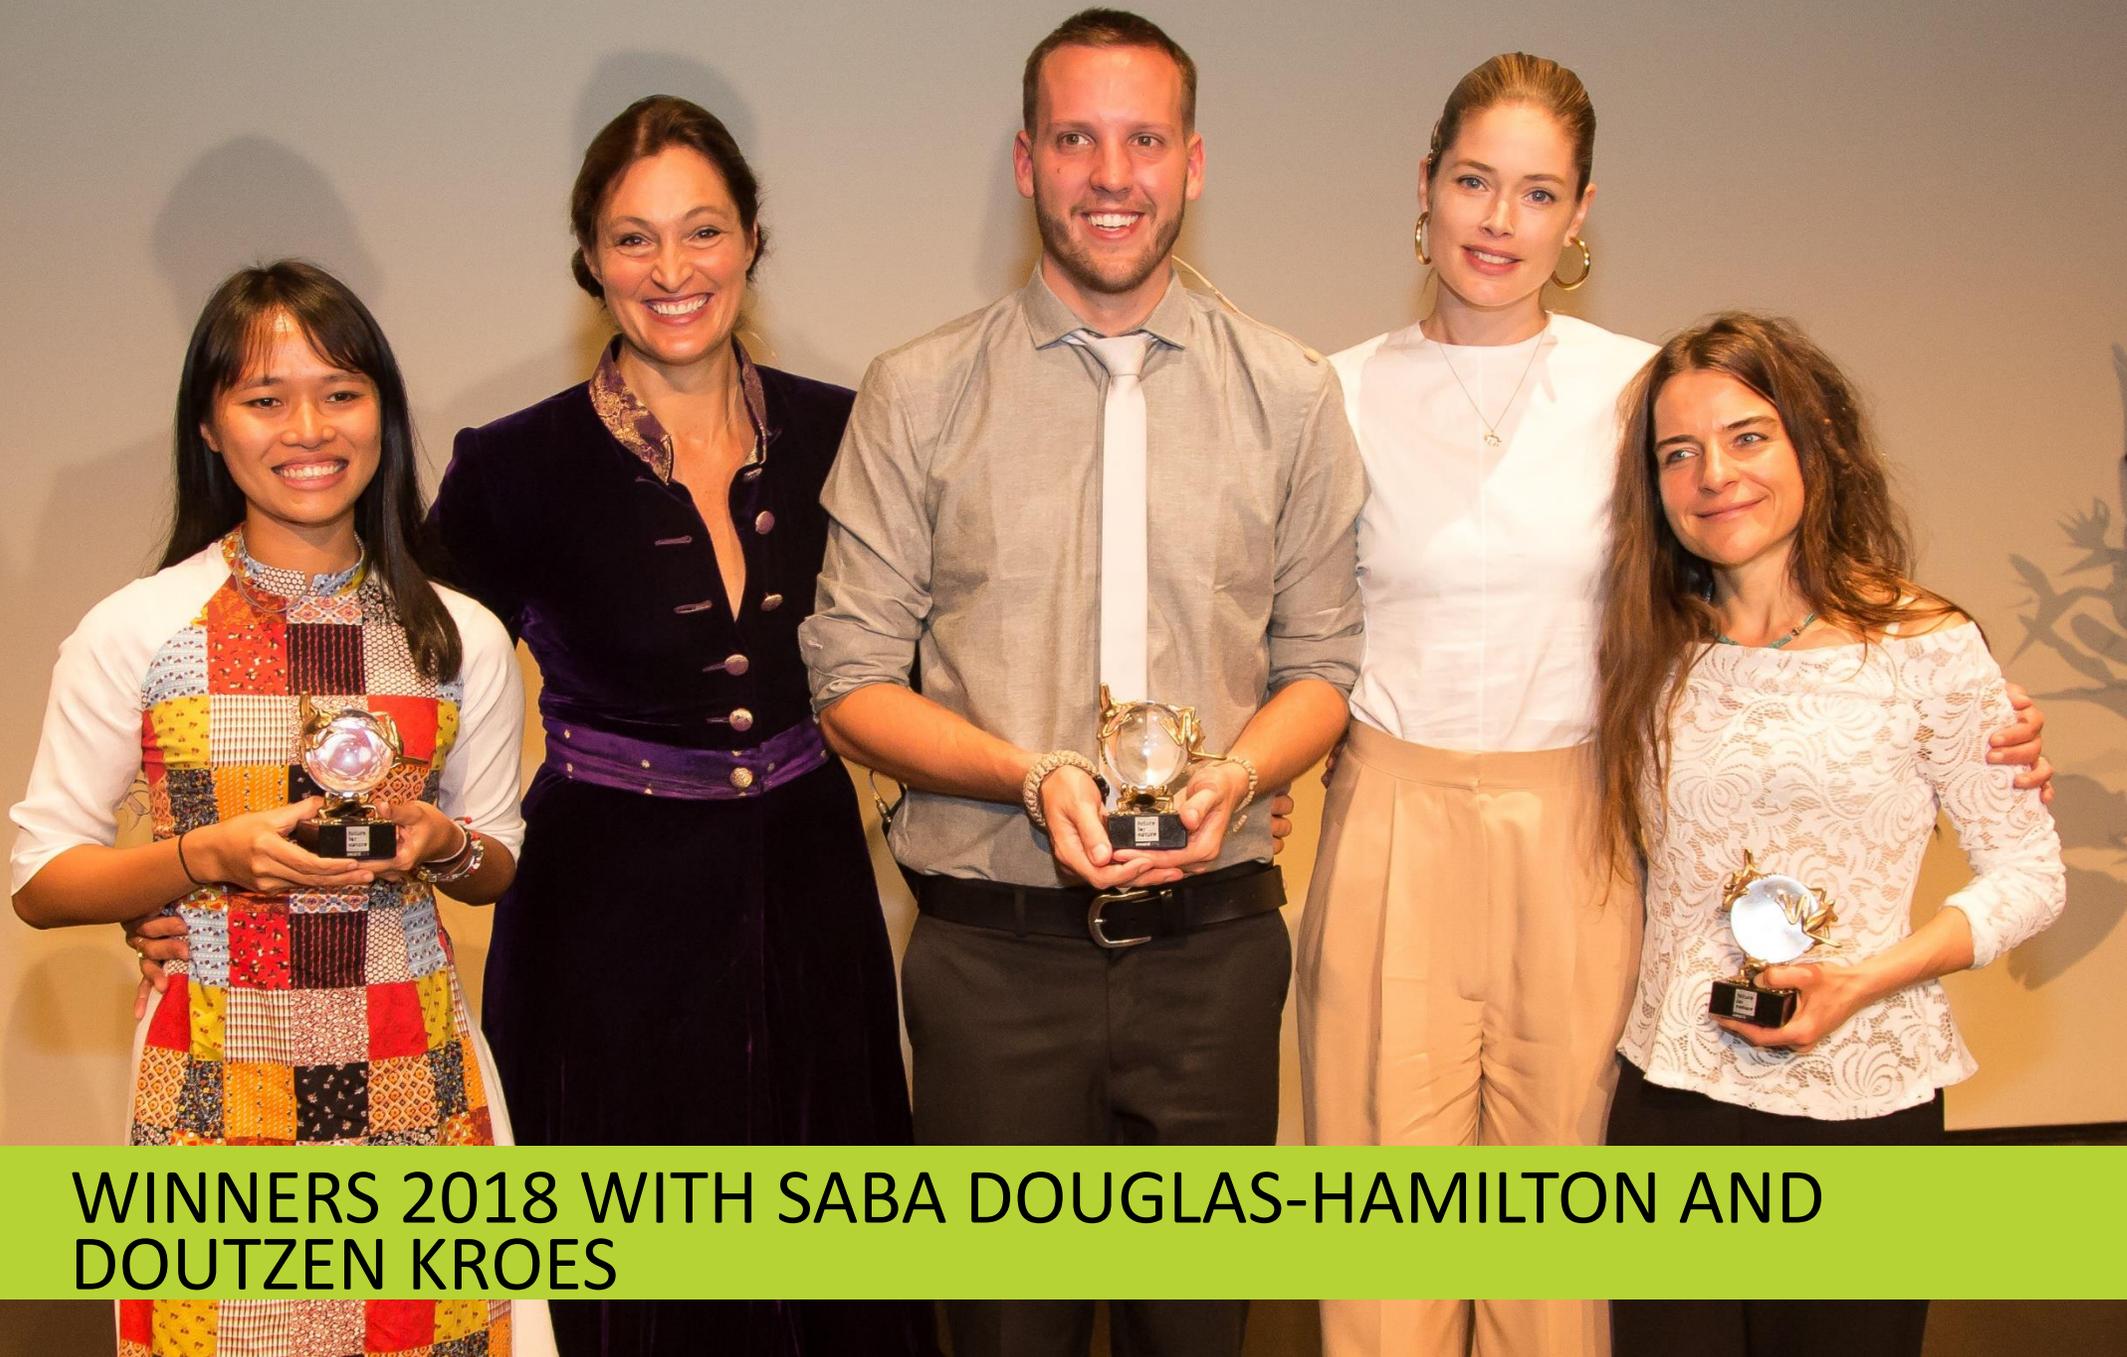

Trang Nguyen (Vietnam, wildlife trafficking)

After a thorough assessment by the members of the International Selection Committee the Board assigned the three Award winners 2018: Trang Nguyen, Adam Miller and Geraldine Werhahn. They all came to Arnhem to receive the award and 50.000 euro prize money.

WINNERS 2018 WITH SABA DOUGLAS-HAMILTON AND DOUTZEN KROES

What an incredible day it was! Hearing the inspiring, pure and most touching stories of the FFN Award winners left us grasping the tissues in emotion and awe. Former winner Patricia Medici spoke to us via a video message to welcome the new winners to the Future For Nature family. Our host Saba Douglas-Hamilton spoke from the heart about the winners and the outstanding Guest of Honour Doutzen Kroes. Doutzen gave us an insight into her path into conservation and showed us how two completely different worlds can come together and by doing so unleash unexpected powers for the protection of nature.

Drinks on the safari terrace at Burgers' Zoo was a finishing touch to a perfect day.

Geraldine Werhahn took us to the high altitudes of the mountains of Nepal on her search for the Himalayan wolf.

Trang Nguyen from Vietnam showed us how an undercover action to catch wildlife traffickers almost went wrong.

And Adam Miller got us to listen to the alarm call of the songbirds of Indonesia before the forests turn silent.

An impression of the event can be seen on our website, where you can view the photo's, a short video with shots from behind the scenes and the whole ceremony as broadcasted via our livestream.

AWARD EVENT 2018 (APRIL 20TH)

future for nature

This year's event generated a lot of media attention. From interviews with FFN winner Trang Nguyen in national newspapers to an TV interview with chair of the International Selection Committee Saba Douglas-Hamilton and interviews on radio and TV with Guest of Honour Doutzen Kroes.

AWARD EVENT 2018 (APRIL 20TH) - MEDIA ATTENTION

On Wednesday evening April 18th, the Future For Nature winners met the students of the Future For Nature Academy in Velp. For the participating students an experience they're not likely to forget.

FFN Academy is a national network of students and young graduates with a passion for nature conservation, linked to the Future For Nature Foundation. By organizing varying activities such as lectures, documentary-evenings, and symposia they create a platform for people to meet, discuss and make plans together for a better future for nature.

NEW ROUND 2019

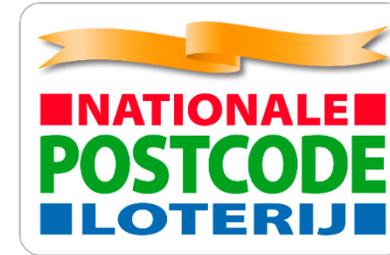

In 2018, Future For Nature's work was sponsored by:

- Royal Burgers' Zoo
- National Postcode Lottery
- Africa's Eden
- VAT foundation

Besides funding by these sponsors, Future For Nature received many donations from Future For Nature supporters. The GlobeGuards Nature Auction on Thursday 4 October also managed to raise a substantial sum for this year's winners.

Next to above mentioned support, we received in kind support from Alpha Rainbow.
